

TECHNOLOGY AND SOCIAL CHANGE: HOW TO BECOME ACTIVE PLAYERS

The American University of Paris, 6, rue du Colonel Combes, 75007
Paris

Room: C31

Monday, April 3, 6h30 – 8h00 pm

FIND OUT MORE ABOUT THE
COMPUTER SCIENCE MAJOR
AND
THE NEW MAJOR IN
QUANTITATIVE AND COMPUTATIONAL METHODS IN THE SOCIAL SCIENCES

You are cordially invited to participate at the get-together organized by the Computer Science, Math, and Science department.

The title theme will be explored through short presentations and questions / answers sessions on:

- The experience of AUP alumni
 - Yann Lechelle – Founder and CEO of Etheryl (Community management software)
 - Olivier Laurent - European Reporter for Dealing With Technology (Financial business to business magazine)
 - Paul Cociuba – Hummingbird (Enterprise Software Solutions)
 - Camille El Gammal – EntropySoft (Enterprise Content Integration Software)
 - Dharit Anjaria – DHL France
- Dr Olga MACOVSHI - The International Association for the Exchange of Students for Technical Experience (IAESTE) (internships in foreign countries to students in technical or scientific domains).
- Quantitative and Computational Methods in the Social Sciences Major, and current research in the department - Claudia Roda – Co-chair Computer Science, Math, and Science Department

Snacks and drinks will help us focus!

We hope that many of you will be able to join us!

